The Maritime Port Business Group (GEMAR) carried out a shift in operations today as part of its preparations for Exercise Meteoro 2025, which will take place across the country on May 24 and 25.

Meteoro is a national civil defense exercise that aims to strengthen the country's capacity to confront natural, technological, or health disasters by promoting coordination between institutions and preparing the population.

GEMAR's actions demonstrate the maritime-port sector's commitment to prevention and resilience, ensuring that its facilities and personnel are ready to respond to emergencies.

These activities reflect the importance Cuba places on protecting life and economic resources from potential risks, in line with the State's disaster reduction strategy.
